Among Friends

by Pamela J. Marshall

Version 1 for brass quartet: trumpet, 2 horns, euphonium

Version 2 for horn quartet

“Among Friends” is gentle and conversational - a gathering of like-minded people who take pleasure in a friendly discussion. I picture debates and repartee, clever quips and eloquent reflections, culminating in a deeply felt accord as all the musicians play a unison melody. I originally wrote “Among Friends” for a quartet of high school and adult brass players at the Rivers School, commissioned by their coach Dan Shaud. It was an interesting variation of the standard brass quartet instrumentation. Two horns in the middle, plus the euphonium, enhance the theme of friends with their warm sound.

The second version is for horn quartet. The tessitura of horn 1 is a little high, but still comfortable. Esprit de Cor, for whom I made the adaptation, performed it as an octet, doubling the parts.

Duration ~4.75 minutes

Written in 2006, adapted for horns in 2008

commissioned by Dan Shaund for his brass quartet at Rivers School, Weston, MA
